Examination is continued under 37 CFR 1.114.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 and 16 are rejected under 35 USC 103 as unpatentable the evidence being He et al, Chen et al '263 and Rhodes '915, all considered together. For an image device pixel as in Chen et al (Figure 1C), with the photodiode and reset transistor as in He et al (Figure 2), it would have been obvious to use an "interconnect" 320 as in Rhodes, "extending to an upper portion of the isolation structure" 132 as in Rhodes, in order to connect the n-type "source" region 201 of the reset transistor as in He et al to the gate of a source follower as in Rhodes and Chen et al. The "photodiode sensing" region reads on a photodiode region 103 as in He et al. The "isolation structure" reads on a field oxide FOX as in He et al and field oxide 132 as in Rhodes, which would have been obvious to use for isolation.

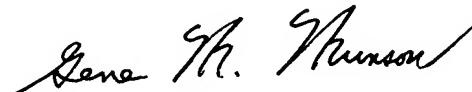

Note that in Rhodes, region 315 corresponds to region 30 in Figure 1, which is a source region of reset transistor 31. Reset transistor 104 of present invention (Figure 1) corresponds to reset transistor 31 of Rhodes (Figure 1), reset transistor 101a of Chen et al (Figure 1C), and the reset transistor of He et al (Figure 2).

The conclusion is that the claimed invention as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made. The hypothetical person of ordinary skill in the relevant art, familiar with all that the references disclose, "would have found it obvious to make a structure corresponding to what is claimed." In re Sovish, 226 USPQ 771, 774 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

No claim is allowed.
